The poems in Farm Alarm Poems are full of the joys and challenges of farm life. There are poems about the daily routines of feeding the animals, milking the cows, and harvesting the crops. There are also poems about the animals themselves, from the proud rooster to the playful kittens. And there are poems about the changing seasons, from the bright colors of spring to the snowy stillness of winter.

Mabin's writing is full of vivid imagery that brings the farm to life. In the poem "Morning Chorus," she writes:

The rooster crows, the hens all squawk,
The cows moo low, the pigs all talk.
The sheep all bleat, the goats all bleat,
The ducks all quack, the geese all tweet.

Mabin's use of language is playful and engaging. In the poem "The Piglet's Party," she writes:

The piglets had a party,
They ate cake and pie.
They played games and sang songs,
And had a grand time by.

Farm Alarm Poems is a delightful read for children and adults alike. Mabin's poems are full of humor, heart, and a deep love of the farm. They are a reminder of the simple joys of life and the importance of cherishing the natural world.
