In an era defined by the looming threat of climate change, where scientific data and rational appeals often fall short, Murmur, Rumble, Roar: Poems About Climate Change emerges as a poignant and powerful force.

This exceptional anthology gathers the voices of renowned and emerging poets from around the globe, weaving a tapestry of words that captures the multifaceted realities of climate change. Through their lyrical lens, they explore the urgency, the devastation, the hope, and the resilience that characterize this defining issue of our time.

From the murmuring streams and hushed whispers of the natural world to the rumbling thunder and deafening roar of environmental catastrophe, the poems in this collection resonate deeply. They bear witness to the melting ice caps, the rising seas, the intensifying storms, and the countless species facing extinction.

But amidst the somber truths, Murmur, Rumble, Roar also echoes with notes of resilience, hope, and determination. It celebrates the beauty and fragility of our planet, inspiring us to act before it's too late. Through its evocative imagery and heart-stirring narratives, this anthology prompts us to reflect on our relationship with the environment and to embrace our responsibility as stewards of this magnificent Earth.

More than just a collection of poems, Murmur, Rumble, Roar is a call to action, a reminder that our voices matter. It empowers us to use our words, our creativity, and our collective will to demand change.

In the words of renowned climate activist Greta Thunberg, "Change is coming, whether you like it or not. And if you don't like it, then get ready to fight." Murmur, Rumble, Roar is that fight, a literary battle cry that will resonate long after the final page is turned.

As we navigate the uncharted waters of the climate crisis, let Murmur, Rumble, Roar be our guide. Let its words ignite within us a fierce determination, a passion for protecting our planet, and an unwavering belief in the power of human ingenuity and compassion.

A Symphony of Voices

The poets featured in this remarkable anthology represent a diverse range of backgrounds, experiences, and perspectives. Their unique voices harmonize to create a chorus that speaks to the multifaceted nature of climate change.

- Arundhati Roy, the Booker Prize-winning Indian author, weaves tales of environmental degradation and social injustice.
- Margaret Atwood, the celebrated Canadian novelist and poet, pens haunting verses that explore the consequences of climate change on the human condition.
- Wendell Berry, the revered American novelist, poet, and farmer, offers a perspective rooted in the land and its stewardship.
- Kim Stanley Robinson, the renowned science fiction author, envisions possible futures shaped by climate change.
- Elizabeth Kolbert, the Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist and author, brings her scientific expertise to bear in her insightful poems.

These are just a few of the luminaries whose voices grace the pages of Murmur, Rumble, Roar. Together, they create a chorus that is both urgent and hopeful, a resounding call for action in the face of climate change.
